

MIDTOWN INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL

Dear Pattillo Construction,

In decades of working on capital projects for schools, I have never worked with a company I trust more than Pattillo Construction to fulfill our design, building, and construction needs. The team has always been thoughtful, committed, clear in their communications, and equally passionate in helping us fulfill our mission.

One day in our last project, for example, the Pattillo site supervisor got news that the vendor for a core (but custom) material for our project was retiring from the industry and slowing down production. With a school start date looming just after the originally expected delivery of these materials, we couldn't afford any delay. Pattillo communicated the issue to us immediately, had several solutions for us to work through together, and pulled off a timely (and below budget) completion. I was blown away by the professionalism, but more importantly by the feeling of having a real partner in helping us reach our goals.

The Pattillo Construction team has always listened to the needs of our growing organization, while not being afraid to share their expertise as we work to fulfill our mission. As a school, we put our students first, and the Pattillo team shared that value in each and every decision. We never felt like a customer, but rather like a valued member of a community of experts. Our contractual relationship has always felt secondary to this true partnership, and we appreciate Pattillo's ongoing support and participation in our school community as we work together to make the world a better place.

Sincerely,

Ande Noktes
